press release # E-80005a CP 24 / 16 - A Small Package with a Powerful Punch

For Immediate Release

November 2001

Elektralite will launch the CP 16 / 24, a universal moving light controller and big brother to the renowned CP10xt - the work horse of many club designs the world over - at the Lighting Dimensions International exhibition in Orlando, Florida this fall.

Whereas the CP10xt offers control of 16 x 8-channel fixtures, the all new CP16 / 24 allows the user to control the very largest fixtures with it's 16 x 24-channel capability (that's a whopping 384 DMX channels).

The CP16 / 24 is capable of programming a wide variety of different manufacturers' intelligent moving fixtures through the use of extensive libraries already patched and ready for use. There are even additional entries to cover fixtures not already specified in the library. It will also control dimmers, color changers - in fact, virtually any device that utilizes DMX protocol.

Retaining the ease of programming which made the CP-10xt such a worldwide success, it takes only seconds to learn how to enter a cue, create a chase, and construct a macro. Manual control of any individual or multiple fixtures can be done at any time even while a pre-programmed show is playing.

Other features include: auto-masking, timed crossfade, and coarse or fine joystick control. The user also has the added ability to turn the joystick from absolute to relative position control, providing accurate positioning of moving lights.

To enhance creativity, a MIDI port is provided which allows control of the CP16 / 24 remotely from another MIDI device such as a keyboard. The MIDI port also allows CP16 / 24's to be linked, and to download or upload complete memory content to a 3.5" disk, for example.

The CP16 / 24 is supplied with an external power supply which is UL listed and C.S.A. approved. It is available in either 110 - 115 volt or 230 volt ratings.
